JOIN THE LOCAL COORDINATING COMMITTEE

MANY PATHS. ONE PURPOSE.
82nd SWCS International Annual Conference
July 25–28, 2027 | National Harbor, MD

WHAT DOES THE COMMITTEE DO?

Get involved with the planning process for the 82nd Soil and Water Conservation Society's (SWCS) International Annual Conference in National Harbor, Maryland (July 25-28, 2027).

The Local Coordinating Committee, with plenty of help from SWCS staff, is responsible for organizing and providing suggestions for the following aspects of the event -

- Student Poster Contest
- Onsite Volunteering
- SWCS Exhibit Booth
- Event Promotion
- Silent Auction
- Speaker Search
- Partner Search
- Tours
- … and more!

WHO CAN PARTICIPATE?

The committee is open to anyone interested in participating, you do not need to be local to the D.C. area. This is your chance to add your perspectives to our event content and show off regional conservation efforts! Committee members typically include -

- SWCS chapter leaders
- SWCS members
- Other community partners
- SWCS Emerging Leaders Program participants and alumni
- Exhibitors/Sponsors

FROM WHERE?

Volunteers can participate fully remotely via Zoom, be in the D.C. area, and/or attend the conference in July. Attending the conference is not required to participate on the committee.

WHEN DOES THE COMMITTEE MEET?

Initial planning discussions will begin in late November and continue through the event in July. Time commitments are flexible and vary by task and committee member availability. Contributions may range from a few minutes to share ideas or provide feedback to several days of work for more involved responsibilities, such as planning and coordinating a tour. Committee members can participate based on their interests, availability, and desired level of involvement.
